

TSI/ACTSO Workshop 2010

Friday 19 November

Guildhall London

This year's workshop will take place in the awe-inspiring splendor of London's Guildhall in the East and West Crypts. The East Crypt is the oldest part of the Guildhall and dates back to Edward the Confessor in 1042.

Session 1

New Government – A New Direction for Regulatory Services? How will CSR impact on regulatory services in the next four years?

A session to look at the implications of the new Governments policies and spending review on regulatory services

Session 2

Local Government – On the Up or on the Down? (part of the problem or part of the solution?)

A session to look at how Local Government and regulatory services can respond to the challenges of the next few years

Session 3

Social Media – An essential medium for engaging communities or new 'toys' (what's wrong with email?)

A session to look at some of the innovative and critical uses of new social media to engage with and talk to individuals and communities.

Further details about the workshop and speakers will be available on the TSI website shortly.

Registration will commence at 9.30am when refreshments will be available.

The programme which starts at 10.15am includes a two course lunch, afternoon tea and drinks reception with finger buffet which should conclude by 7.00pm
